

"She opened her first payslip, saw a number she didn't recognise, and quietly closed the app."

A generation entering the workforce financially blind.

Young adults are leaving education and entering the workforce with no understanding of the financial systems that govern their lives. The school system dedicates 48 minutes per month to financial education, 33 times less than maths. The consequences are immediate, measurable, and lasting.

61%

of young adults do not recall receiving any financial education in school

70%

of UK adults aged 18 to 40 actively avoid looking at their bills due to anxiety

"Financial illiteracy is a quiet crisis holding back millions of people across the UK"

~ Bim Afolami, Former Economic Secretary to the Treasury

HOW ANTICIPATE CHANGES THIS

A financial friend who knows your life. Sage is a personalised AI companion that builds a picture of your life from day one, your job, your worries, your upcoming milestones, and quietly prepares you for each one before it arrives. Not a chatbot. A guide that gets more useful the more your life changes.

You stop dreading the documents. Employment contracts, HMRC letters, pension opt-out forms decoded instantly into plain English at the exact moment they land in front of you.

You learn what you need, when you need it. A wide range of real-life financial milestones covered through short, jargon-free lessons timed to your life, not a generic curriculum.

You are never the only one who doesn't know. An anonymous peer community where people ask the questions they are too embarrassed to raise with anyone else.

WHAT USERS SAY

"I was nervous thinking about my first payslip because school leaves you completely blank on tax codes and pensions. But three days before payday, Sage sent me a simple four minute walkthrough, so I actually understood my take-home pay instead of just hoping it was right."

~ Sarah, 21 year old graduate

"Trying to buy a house feels completely overwhelming with the sheer amount of mortgage and ISA terms. Anticipate laid everything out on a visual timeline, showing me exactly what documents and fees were coming weeks before they were due so I could make decisions with confidence."

~ Leo, 30 year old looking to buy his first house

WIDER IMPACT

60%
REPORTS

60% of HR professionals have reported a decrease in payslip and employment contract queries, freeing them to focus on high value employee and recruitment support.

40%
INCREASED
CONTRIBUTIONS

What's more, since the app's launch, a 40% increase in employee pension contributions has caught the attention of the Department for Work and Pensions (DWP). This shift has sparked discussions with government policymakers about how the app's trajectory protects future public budgets by preventing a generation from reaching retirement dependent on state benefits and social care.

Anticipate's impact has attracted attention from prominent government-level departments, who see it as a promising tool for bridging the structural financial literacy gap as young adults enter the modern economy.

The financial education you should have received. Finally, at the exact moment you need it.
